NEWS: “LIVE FROM BROOKLANDWOOD!”: THE ST. PAUL’S SPORTS NETWORK

JANUARY 10, 2022 | BRADEN KLETZ | 98 COMMENTS

At the beginning of the 2021-22 school year, middle school English teacher and basketball PA announcer Mr. Matt Byars began assembling a group of students at the St. Paul’s Upper and Middle Schools interested in sports broadcasting. Soon, the word spread to join the club that Mr. Byars created in order to start learning how to broadcast.

The concept was simple: create a way to broadcast sporting events at St. Paul’s. As time passed, we eventually had a large enough group to provide a play-by-play announcer to call the game, a color commentator to give alternative perspectives, a director to produce the broadcast, and camera people to shoot the game. To get everybody trained, Mr. Byars introduced the students to a program called Switcher Studios, through which the broadcasts are streamed and recorded.

I took on the task of learning the ins and outs of Switcher, which turned out to be quite interesting. The program has many different features that can be utilized over the course of different sporting events. As time goes on, we will hopefully see smoother broadcasts as we adapt to these features. For example, as the other directors and I started to use Switcher more, we were able to use overlays to introduce the players in the starting lineup.

Once the club had its members and a way to stream, we needed students to choose the positions they felt best fit them. This proved slightly difficult because no one had prior experience in broadcasting. Mr. Byars showed examples and gave us time to practice what a broadcast should look like for the color commentator and the play-by-play analyst. Looking through national broadcasts, creating spotting boards, and recording in Mr. Byars' room for weekly practice, we did everything we could in a short amount of time to acclimate ourselves to what an official broadcast should both look and sound like.

After less than a month to prepare, the crew broadcast the St. Paul's versus Boys' Latin football game without notifying the public, keeping the stream private. This allowed the crew to try multiple positions in rotations and to work through the rough patches that were inevitable in a first broadcast. All in all, things were successful for the trial run and we realized that this could become a regular operation for the winter season. As of December 9th, 2021, the St. Paul's Sports Network team has broadcast every home basketball game this season. With more experience, the streams are becoming better and better. As we get more comfortable broadcasting, we hope to stream other winter and, eventually, spring sports when the time comes.

Although I won't have had this experience for all four years of high school (as I am a senior), I am glad that this group has gotten off the ground, and hope that it will continue for a long time at St. Paul's. If you are interested in tuning in to these broadcasts, go to SPSN live, or "St. Paul's Sports Network (SPSN)" on YouTube.

I think what you composed was actually very logical.
However, think about this, what if you composed a catchier title?

I ain't saying your content is not good., but what if you added a headline that grabbed folk's attention? I mean NEWS: "Live from Brooklandwood!"
: The St. Paul's Sports Network | The Page and the Epistle is kinda vanilla.
You should peek at Yahoo's front page and note how they create post titles to get people to click.

You might add a related video or a related picture or two to grab readers interested about what you've got to say. In my opinion, it might make your website a little livelier.

First off I want to say fantastic blog! I had a quick question in which I'd like to ask if you don't mind. I was interested to find out how you center yourself and clear your head prior to writing. I have had difficulty clearing my mind in getting my ideas out there. I truly do enjoy writing but it just seems like the first 10 to 15 minutes are lost just trying to figure out how to begin. Any recommendations or tips? Cheers!
