FEATURE: GETTING (SAFELY) INTO THE HALLOWEEN SPIRIT

OCTOBER 26, 2020 | PAIGE BOLLINGER | 34 COMMENTS

It is officially the season of screams, ghosts, and horrors! Get ready, because Halloween is right around the corner. If you are in need of some holiday fun and inspiration, don't let COVID scare you away—here are seven spooky ideas you can do safely:

Haunted Attractions:

One way that will definitely get you into Halloween mode is checking out some spooky destinations. Take your mask, and go cautiously to that creepy corn-maze, scary pumpkin patch, or eerie house. Some haunted attractions that will for sure give you the frights and are nearby include the Field of Screams (Columbia, MD) and Legends of Fog (Aberdeen, MD). Due to COVID, these places have adopted a number of safety procedures to keep their visitors safe. Despite this, these places are still open and if you are up for the risk, they are ready to give you some good scares!

Scary Movie Night:

Halloween is the best time to host a scary movie marathon. Grab a blanket and some candy and turn on your favorite films. Here are some recommendations:

Scream(1996) – A year after the murder of her mother, a teenage girl is terrorized by a killer who targets her and her friends by using horror films as a deadly game.

Beetlejuice(1988) – The spirits of a deceased couple are angry that a new family has moved into their home, and so they hire a malicious spirit to scare them away.

Halloween(1978) – Fifteen years after murdering his sister on Halloween night 1963, Michael Myers escapes from a mental hospital and returns to the small town of Haddonfield, Illinois to kill again.

Sleepy Hollow(1999) – Ichabod Crane is sent to Sleepy Hollow to investigate a series of bizarre murders in which a number of people have been found in the woods, beheaded by the Headless Horseman.

If you're not in the mood to scream but still want to get in the spirit, these movies will do the trick:

Hocus Pocus(1993) – Three humorous and wild witches return from 17th-century Salem, after being conjured up by some pranksters, and have a crazy night.

It's the Great Pumpkin, Charlie Brown(1993) – The legendary squad celebrates Halloween while Linus awaits the arrival of the Great Pumpkin.

Eat Candy:

Who isn't in the mood for a Reese's cup, Kit Kat, or Snickers bar? Halloween is your excuse to indulge in these delicious treats. You can never eat too much candy during this holiday.

Tell Scary Stories:

The moon is full, and wind is howling. Spread out around a bonfire with your friends or family and share your most spine-chilling tales. Whether encounters with ghosts or classic urban legends, these types of stories in this spooky setting will get your skin crawling and heart racing.

Decorating:

Decorating your house is a fantastic way to take part in the holiday festivity. Displaying jack-o-lanterns, phantoms, bats, cobwebs, and skulls in your front yard will no doubt get you and your neighbors into the Halloween spirit! Fun DIY decorations you could make include a popsicle-stick cemetery, Halloween-themed wreathes, paper chains, and lanterns.

Carve a Jack-o-lantern:

Pick out that perfect pumpkin at the pumpkin patch, grab a knife, and carve away! Whether you're going for the classic triangle eyes and toothy grin or a challenging, detailed design, you'll feel a sense of accomplishment when it's finished and on your front porch for all to admire.

Dress Up:

What better occasion is there to dress up than Halloween? Even if you are not going Trick or Treating, it is still a splendid time to dig out your old beloved costume and feel the spirit. Some festive ideas include crayons, Hershey bars, Disney characters, superheroes, or frightening monsters. If you choose not to buy anything, many costumes can be made the DIY way. Find simple clothes in your closet, add the necessary creative touches, and you're all set!

I think that what you typed was actually very reasonable. However, what about this? suppose you added a little content? I am not saying your information is not good., however what if you added something that grabbed a person's attention? I mean FEATURE: Getting (Safely) into the Halloween Spirit | The Page and the Epistle is kinda vanilla. You should glance at Yahoo's home page and note how they create news headlines to get viewers to click. You might add a video or a related pic or two to get readers interested about what you've got to say. Just my opinion, it would bring your posts a little livelier.

My coder is trying to convince me to move to .net from PHP. I have always disliked the idea because of the expenses. But he's trying none the less. I've been using Movable-type on various websites for about a year and am anxious about switching to another platform. I have heard excellent things about blogengine.net. Is there a way I can import all my wordpress content into it? Any kind of help would be really appreciated!

hey there and thank you for your information – I've definitely picked up something new from right here.

I did however expertise several technical points using this web site, since I experienced to reload the website many times previous to I could get it to load correctly.

I had been wondering if your web host is OK? Not that I'm complaining, but sluggish loading instances times will very frequently affect your placement in google and can damage your quality score if ads and marketing with Adwords.

Anyway I'm adding this RSS to my email and can look out for a lot more of your respective fascinating content.

Make sure you update this again very soon.
